

Trolleychum

This article was written by Alison Canavan, Model & Mum and appeared in VIP Magazine April 2012

Ask Alison

Hi ALISON,

I'm so worried about my baby picking up infections, especially when out and about. Have you any tips or products than can help a concerned Mum?
Ruby, Meath

Hi RUBY,

Exposure to a certain amount of germs is necessary to build up immunity but I always carry disinfectant wipes for high chairs in restaurants. I always find the supermarket trolleys the worst but an Irish mum, Riona, has just invented the Trolleychum. She disliked putting her little boy in the cold, wet and often dirty seats that harbour a lot of bacteria. The Trolleychum has loops for playthings, holds a bottle, your phone and car keys. Now, it's like a five star trip to the shops! No more germ-infested hard metal for teething babies to chew on, and it also doubles as a highchair cover. Visit www.trolleychum.com for more; €25 plus post and packaging.

